Skills and knowledge I may use from other subjects:

Maths:

In maths this year, you will become increasingly confident in working with money. You will learn how to solve problems and develop your understanding of adding and subtracting money, as well as multiplying and dividing amounts of money. This will support your learning in this topic, and also going forward into adolescence.

English:

In English this year, you will begin to read more confidently and fluently, for pleasure as well as for finding out information. You will be able to explain your reasons for your opinions in detail. You will be able to show understanding for, and consider other people's opinions and their reasons for them, even if they are very different from your own.

In writing, you will begin to draft and write by using a wider range of devices to build cohesion within and across paragraphs. This will build your effectiveness of discussion and arguments and justification of opinions. When performing or speaking, you will begin to use appropriate intonation, volume and movement so that the meaning is clear.

What you will have learnt by the end of Key Stage 2.

You will have a deep and secure knowledge of money, the forms it takes and different ways to spend and save money. You will understand that people's financial situations are different, that people make very different decisions concerning money and you will be able to appreciate these different decisions. You will know that money is a finite resource, earned in different ways. You will be able to consider giving to those less fortunate than yourself, such as charities, and understand why this is important. You will understand the difference between needs and wants and will have acquired skills to help you make informed decisions about budgeting, saving spending and giving.

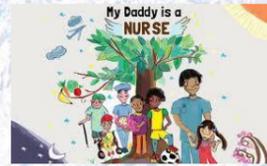

You will understand the difference between jobs and careers, and the different skills required for various roles. You will be able to reflect on people's feelings and attitudes towards work and know that they will differ. You will be able to explain the advantages of working, including non-monetary benefits. You will gain skills and knowledge about what employers are looking for, increasing your employability. You will be able to consider your attitude towards learning, and know that choices you make in education will affect your future. You will know how to keep yourself safe when working and what the law says about protecting workers.

You will become confident in reflecting on your own achievements, and setting goals for your future.

There are lots of factors to consider when making decisions about saving, spending and giving. It is important to understand that everybody's choices will be different and should be viewed with kindness and respect. Some people will choose to budget, some will choose not to, and others will not have a choice.

Essentials = needs
Things that you cannot be without such as food.

Have you ever thought about how the choices we make about money can affect the way we feel? Our money choices influence our feelings in good and bad ways. For example, being unable to pay for rent and bills and having to borrow money off friends and family can make us feel worried or anxious. On the other hand, choosing to give some money to someone who is less fortunate than you and knowing you have made a difference can make us feel quite happy.

A 'stereotype' is an idea about a group of people that is quite often incorrect. For example, lots of people hold stereotypes about jobs for men and women. Without realising, people often associate being a nurse as a female's job, and being a fire fighter as a man's job. This couldn't be further from the truth as you can be whatever you want to be. There is no such thing as jobs for men and jobs for women!

Desires = wants
Things that you chose to buy but can live without.

Benefits of being employed:

1. High potential for earning
2. A good work-life balance
3. Job satisfaction
4. Make more friends
5. No day is the same
6. Opportunity to learn new skills

When considering if something is 'value for money' or a 'best buy' it is not just a question of something being 'cheap' or 'expensive'. Value for money can be linked to how easy a product is to make or how easily available a product is. For example, apples are grown in the UK and are easy to obtain so the price we would expect to pay is relatively low. On the other hand, although the price of something like a camera is much higher, it is still probably good value for money because it is a very technical piece of equipment.
